

Durham Custom Homes held its Holiday Food Drive last week for the Simcoe Hall Food Bank in Oshawa. The company collected food in their Kingsway Forest sales office during the week and staff and principals canvassed door-to-door in the subdivision on Saturday December 13.

Durham Custom Homes matched all public donations from the Kingsway Forest community, which resulted in several hundred pounds of food. "We were overwhelmed by the outpouring of community support for this worthy cause", said Principal Jeff Goldman.

The Simcoe Hall Food bank provides a 3-5 day supply of food to more than 6,600 individuals a year. These numbers have been increasing by 10% each of the past 3 years. The food bank relies on community support for half of its operating budget.

"Giving back to the community has been a cornerstone of this company's philosophy for almost 60 years." said General manager, Victor Fiume. The Goldman families are long-time supporters of local charities and academic institutions including the University of Ontario Institute of Technology and Lakeridge Health Centre..
